whole lotta love. he thumbs the volume up to 11. he stands, and he steps out from behind the cherrywood, and he steps onto the glass tiles, and they come to life and throb nice warm crimsons and blues and burnt golds as he dances crazy, like a drunk at a prom he somehow snuck into. as the mirror ball glints and spins, steam rises from doomey's sweat-drenched suit coat. he spins, and spins, and then he slows. he claws inside his suit coat, comes up with a pall mall, thumbnails a vesta and sets fire to the tip of the cigarette. he sucks in some sweet smoke. he exhales. soundgarden's nothing to say bursts from the bose]

tis the 16th. i've done what i can do. i am out.

i've a freak show to firm up, after all.

Not so fast, sir! I believe you'll find it not so easy to leave the floor, my friend. Like I said in the business office. We're grinding until we die, sir. Food will be delivered via pneumatic tube ... yes. I've had them repaired, look to your right! There. I hope you like beanie weenies. Seems they are the only thing will adhere into an air-tight enough amalgam yet are flexible enough to make it through all the twists and turns without clogging ... now! Get ass your back here won. We're going to be so tired of knowing .. I mean 'winning' sit down, will you! There will be more cap for your reviewing pleasure.

The week's Floor show is NOT brought to you by DUOTROPE. FINDING HOMES FOR STORIES SINCE 1933!

What are you doing here, Ms. DePlancher. You're past date.

I gave my soul to a new religion. Whatever happened to you.

Jesus Christ.

Don't do it, brother.It's me! Otto! You got the wrong guy ... that lousy rat bastahd Rorschalk don't know shit about promoting nothing! I mean, shit! We otta be ankle deep in gems by now!

Yeah. You heard right! Gems! You though I was going to what? Sodomize? I got some crazy glue in the left front pocket, you lousy mook! Once I fixed this here ax, I was going to the coffee shop and lay down some old Croche tunes at open mic night ... yeah! That's right. Traverse is probably down there now to do the freakin' sound check! C'mon doomey, give a brother the benefit of the doubt. Ever since I left the rat-infested filthy hole of TQR, everythings been coming roses!

DeP sips pomegranate juice from her goblet, adjusts her giant red googly intellectual library studies major glasses and looks over at bewildered Jesus in his worn maid uniform.]

You ought to see if there's something in the budget for repairs. Your hem is soiled, JC. Makes you look loose.

What's this about 'out dated'? Who told you about my birthday, eh bag wan? Nevermind. As for 'knock back'...hmmmm she flips through a chewed up volume of something something Everybody Knows but soon gives up and tosses it under her desk. Rimbaud bolts from the darkness and gives her a weak cat warning...he loves her too much to carry through with any serious threats]

Knock back. Maybe just punch recall on that cracked iPhone of yours. Maybe that's Jimmy yak talk for call back. Try it. Was that Doomey reporting in? What the hell trouble is he getting into roaming the streets? We can hope you don't have to go find him again. You haven't saved anybody for awhile, have ya now, baby Jesus? It's alright. World's been in chaos since Batman bit Robin in the shoulder. Some other stuff too, I know, but I can't bear listening to the news since Frank Zappa made that documentary.

Hey...do you have any straws in that wardrobe of yours? Clean ones, svp, Jesus mon cher. Clean ones only. I have to watch my intake of disease laden objects. Merci.

It's not my wardrobe, Ms. Deplacher. And I don't have any straws. Did you mean to ask me for straws? Why would you want straws?

Thing is, we've got responsibility. Responsibility breeds a pure, sweet ethos. Ethos, ours, makes happy puppies, well-behaved babies, which are very rare, and witty id. Room to breathe. Breath.

And so we watch Eat That Question, and we rejoice and wave our arms above our heads. Woo and whatnot. Who is Otto? I've serious trends, bro, trends to erase this person, right?

DeP tosses some cushions around and gets comfortable. She waves her arms in the air like she just don't care...does she doesn't she? Whinnies like an old gray mare...the air sometimes gets a little stale in the old stink---ballroom. It's alright. It's alright. Frank's on. Jesus in his maid suit huffs a Java and shuffles from one sockless boot to the other. Nervous, for a big hairy accomplished guy..]

Who knows where the wind blows, eh Jesus? You have no straws, d'accord. Who needs a straw when you own the bottle factory. Je ne sais pas quoi. I've cactus juice if you need it. Please sip responsibly. Mothers inventing nearby. Caramel corn in the oven. Take it or leave it.

A projector screen emerges from a dark place in the ceiling. It's seen better days, circa 1972 but Frank won't mind. These are tumultuous and meagre times.]

Do you know how to run this thing, almighty?

I've...ideas how to make it work, Ms. DePlancher. But, it hangs high. Can't get my hands on it. I believe it might need a dose of fish oil, ease its joints. And then, pretty sure we can hit the lever I espy on its side there, and it might just play whatever movie's wrapped in its reel. Mayhap. Dunno.

Jesus Christ.

Shit just got weird.

Hm.

through the long night. Jesus breathes]

Okay. So we might need to send someone to Seattle. And, as you all know, I would volunteer, but I've particular deeds to focus on in these next few days and weeks, sorry. And so...

I elect Theodore Rorchalk to go find Boligard.

So Ms. DePlancher, how do you vote? Could be we send you to the Emerald City. What say you? Though we all know you do go afar at times, and often. Should we send Rorschalk after Doomey? Eh?
